

Al Bradford is Dead.

News was received here this morning from Helena, Montana that Al Bradford had died at that place on the 24th of this month of typhoid fever. Mr Bradford worked at the blacksmith trade in this town for some twenty years and was known by many of our readers. Last summer he went to Montana. He was about 45 years old. Leaves a wife and four children. During the war of the rebellion he was a soldier in the Union army. The deceased was his own worst enemy. Let the mantle of charity cover his faults, and let us forget them.

Nashua Post, Thur, Dec. 29, 1887, pg 8.